How to use this guide

These prompts work in Claude, ChatGPT, or any AI assistant you already use. They're written to run in order — each one builds on the answer before it.

The trap most people fall into is collecting prompts and never running them. Don't do that. Block off one hour, open a blank chat, and work straight through.

- 01 Use one chat for all ten. The AI keeps your context, so every answer gets sharper as you go.
- 02 Fill in every bracket. Vague input gets you vague output. "A business" is useless. "Meal prep coaching for night-shift nurses" is gold.
- 03 Push back on the first answer. Say "make this more specific" or "give me three riskier versions." The second draft is almost always the better one.
- 04 Keep what you make. Paste each answer into one doc as you go. That doc becomes your business plan.

You have the prompts. Now do the work.

Ten prompts will get you a real starting point. What they won't give you is the part most people quit over — the follow-through when nobody's watching.

That's what the free beginner training covers: the system I use to keep creating, keep selling, and keep showing up while running more than one thing at a time.
